This version incorporates almost all of Kathy's changes, and thank you for the better eyes. It needs to be put on letterhead, and then someone needs to make sure we aren't leaving any dangling headings or things like that.

(I made all of Kathy's changes except for two. First, I'm not sure that "fall" needs to be capitalized. Second, and more substantively, I decided not to switch the italicized sentences in the summary paragraph at the end. This is a particularly important and strategic sentence that we are sliding in there almost as code, and I think we are correctly highlighting it, so that it is read correctly by the involved stakeholder community.)
